

Internship in LAV Asset Management

About us

LAV Asset Management (Hong Kong) Limited is a subsidiary of Lilly Asia Ventures (LAV), a leading biomedical venture capital firm with offices in Shanghai, Hong Kong, and Palo Alto. Our vision is to become the trusted partner for exceptional entrepreneurs seeking smart capital and to build great companies developing breakthrough products that treat diseases and improve human health.

Responsibilities

- Perform equity research into healthcare industry;
- Conduct business & financial analysis into listed stocks in the healthcare industry
- Make company calls, conferences & take notes;
- Analyze, interpret, summarize preclinical/clinical study data, scientific literature, and other technical information;
- Other duties as assigned

Requirements

- B.S. degree in life science related majors (biology, clinical medicine, pharmacy, biomedical engineering, etc.)
- Currently pursuing a related advanced Master, Ph.D. or M.D. degree is preferred
- Relevant full-time working or internship experiences gained from research institution, pharma R&D, biotech, med-tech startups, or consulting firms are preferred
- Excited about early-stage investing, biotechnology and life science innovations
- Ability to assess the quality and reliability of published data, with a hunger for experimental details
- Strong analytical capabilities
- Ability to work in a collaborative environment with other members of the investment team and thrive in a fast-paced and self-motivated professional culture
- Proficient written and spoken communication skills in both English and Mandarin

Location

Hong Kong

Application

Please submit your application to hr@lavfund.com with subject "intern + name + School"